

SUBWAY HALTS, LIGHTS OUT FOR BUILDER'S BURIAL

All Work Stopped for Two Minutes in Honor of John B. MacDonald.

FUNERAL IN CATHEDRAL

Distinguished Prelates Officiate and Noted Men Follow Body to Grave.

A remarkable tribute was paid today to the memory of John B. MacDonald, the builder of the subway, when promptly at the stroke of 10:30 o'clock in the morning every train in the great tube from Atlantic Avenue to Van Cortlandt Park and to West Farms stopped revolving, every car stopped moving and all the lights went out.

promptly on the stroke of the time fixed for Mr. MacDonald's funeral, Power Superintendent Staats pressed a button on his desk at the power house at the foot of West Fifty-ninth street, and a巨響 sounded in all of the nine sub-stations. In four seconds every lever had been brought down, and 100 trains, containing 30,000 passengers, came to a standstill.

Two minutes later another button was pressed, and light and power was thrown on again.

Great precautions had been taken by the Interborough officials to prevent any fright among passengers and avert the possibility of panic among those who might not be aware of the planned tribute.

Trains "Dead" Two Minutes.

The guards announced the purpose of the sudden cessation of the rush of traffic through the big tube, and the train dispatchers made sure there should be no trains in the East River tube or under the Harlem River at the moment of suspension of traffic. Two minutes before the appointed time all trains, north and south bound, were flagged before passing under the rivers, and held at either end, until traffic was resumed.

As a matter of precaution the lights at the stations were left burning. As a further tribute to the memory of the builder of the tube every station has been festooned with mourning garlands since Saturday morning.

Funeral in Cathedral.

The funeral was held from St. Patrick's Cathedral. The cortège, headed by four carriages filled with floral offerings, left the Dakota, Central Park West and Seventy-second street at 10 o'clock. There were no services at the home.

The pall-bearers were former Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, Morgan J. O'Brien, Herman Ellis, John D. Crimmins, Samuel Rea, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad; former Justice Henry W. Gildersleeve, Justice James A. O'Gorman, William Marburgh, August Belmont, William H. Thrusdell, Robert A. C. Smith, Henry Blechheimer and Congressman Martin W. Littleton.

Although there were six carriages filled with floral offerings in the cortège, only a wreath of lilies of the valley, the family's offering, was carried into the church, where it rested on the casket.

Benediction by Farley.

Archbishop John M. Farley and six deacons of the Cathedral took part in the ceremonies, of which the celebrant was the Rev. Dr. Eugene de L'Amour, rector of Gonzaga College, Washington, D. C., a cousin of Mr. MacDonald. Archbishops Farley gave the benediction and the concluding address. Mons. M. J. Lavelle, rector of the Cathedral, Dr. Patrick J. Hayes, chancellor of the archdiocese, master of ceremonies, the Very Rev. James V. Lewis, secretary of the Archcongregation, Rev. Dr. William J. Murphy, Rev. Dr. Bernard P. McGuire, and assistant master of ceremonies, the Rev. John J. Byrne. A dozen priests sang Farley's mass.

The Cathedral was crowded with representatives of organizations and officials with whom Mr. MacDonald was associated and his personal friends and acquaintances. Members of the Engineers Club and the Manhattan Club occupied the front pews, while representatives of the Interborough Company seated in the organization.

Noted Men Present.

Others who attended the services in the Cathedral were Alton B. Parker, Charles F. Ryan, Bryan L. Reynolds, Alexander J. Wallace, Justice Peter M. Morrissey, James A. Blanckard, John F. O'Farrell, Charles P. Murphy, William J. Flynn, James H. Schenck, John J. Grant, Edward J. Hartnett, and his son, Justice A. Deering, Jr.

Adams & Company's latest ad for their new line of men's suits, $25, includes a $50 credit per suit.

ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY WANTED DRIVERS AND HELPERS

Permanent employment assured to competent drivers and helpers, and indemnity in case of injury while in its employ.

Apply to C. E. WILSON, 309 Canal Street, New York City.

DEFERS SENTENCE ON WOMAN UNTIL MOTHER'S DEATH

Court Moved by Plea of Miss McComber, Who Confesses Embezzlement.

Spending together this morning early each successive price promise of becoming engaged. So far the initial activity apparently ceased, and subsequent operations were conducted on a regular Monday morning scale, when decisions are expected to be made in the antitrust cases before the Supreme Court. Miss McComber, 28, with a gain of 102 a point, was one of the strongest features in the early advance. Steve Headling, United and American Steelhead were other prominent issues.

Toward the end of the first hour, the trading element reduced their commitments to a minimum in preparation for possible court decisions later in the day.

The market displayed a sagging tendency to the intruder.

Imports of coal dissolved substantially with the announcement that the Supreme Court failed to hand down any decision in the antitrust cases on day continued unabated throughout the afternoon.

Stocks of oil, grain, and fertilizer were also displayed a sagging tendency. Closing prices were the best of the day.

Prices ranged from fractions to 2

William Stillings, Thomas F. McAvoy, Justice Prather, S. McAvoy, John A. Boose, N. J. Hughes, William Leahy and representatives of the Central Park Association and trustees of the Met Life Insurance Co. were present.

Invited were Honorable Durkee, Director of Finance, who is a special car load, and Mr. M. McDonald, family representative of the service.

WALL STREET

site before Thursday.

It is understood that the District-Attorneys will not oppose the suspending of sentence. Mr. Walker, the prosecution officer, reports on Thursday that the case is as bad as it seems on the surface.

It is felt that purchasers of "stock" eyeglasses were awakened.

Glasses should be prescribed for your eyes by an Oculist—not an optician or an over-the-counter salesperson. No factory can turn out glasses like patent medicines and have those glasses give satisfaction, for there are no two eyes alike.

Whether your eyeglasses cost

$2.00, $3.00 or $5.00, they are guaranteed to give you complete, lasting satisfaction.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L. Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel. When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is seventy years old, is dying in East Orange, and her father is also ill. He asked that she be set free now and make partial restitution with the proceeds. Mr. Haines asked that sentence be postponed until Thursday. The motion was granted. It is thought Miss McComber's mother will

die before then.

Miss McComber appeared with V. L.

Haines, an aged lawyer, as her counsel.

When asked how she planned to plead she spoke up before the longer and said:

"I ask only that sentence be deferred,

if it is any way possible, until my dear mother has gone. She is very ill

now."

Mr. Haines offered a plea of guilty and explained that Miss McComber's mother, who is